THE WORLD ANEW

As I lay on the hardened floor,
I closed my eyes and found a 100 doors.

All at once I wasn't in the world's noisy misery,
I was far away in my own tranquil fantasy

I could hear the beauty of the silence.
With the wonder of a dream I formed an alliance
I let go of all my fears,
no longer would I shed any tears.

On the edge of a sea,
with a soft wind blowing at me,
I would change the way I saw, like so few .

When I opened my eyes, I found the world anew.

Grades 3-4: "If I Could Stop Time"

- Sahil Darsh, Grade 4B

If I could stop time, I would leap into the air,
Freeze every cloud just floating over there.

I would twitch the moon, sketch the stars in the sky,
Tasting the chocolate, I twirl down the hall
like a breeze I fly.

I'd paint sweet butterfly in flight,
To bloom upon my bedroom wall so bright.

No school bell, no hustle, no race-
Simply me and my smile in a frozen space.

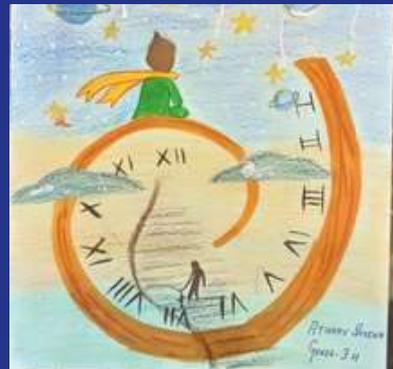

But when I'd feel lonely, I would press play
again,
To giggle with my friends and play in the rain.

Tanishka Rao
Grade - 3C

If I could stop time, I'd freeze the whole world like a picture, just for me.
I'd walk across raindrops stuck in mid-air,
cold and shiny like little mirrors.
I'd float up to the clouds, all fluffy and water vapour like a pillow, and take the longest nap ever.
I'd wander into the library and read every single book without anyone telling me it's bedtime.

I'd eat my favorite ice cream slowly,
without it melting all over my hands.
Then, I'd dive into ocean waves like they were frozen tunnels and find hidden sea treasures no one else has seen.
I'd sip warm milk quietly, with no noise around—just me and the stillness.
I'd watch coffee being poured into a mug,
hanging in the air like magic.
And best of all, I'd find every secret I've ever wondered about, because in a world where time stands still, anything can happen.

- Aajna V Bhat
Grade - 4A

Atharva Saxena
Grade - 3H

I would dance with a twist
through the night in the mist swaying to a birthday party chime only if I could stop that time

Never to worry about the traffic jam and take all the time in my exam
just to come out with chirp and rhyme.

"Where creativity shines
in every voice"

Grades 5 - 6: "The Year 2125 : A Peek into the Future"

- V.A. Atharva, Grade 5A

In the year 2125 the lifestyle of people will be changed, for example babies would not be born in their mothers' womb, they would be born in tubes and technology would be improved in a different manner, there would be flying cars, Virtual & Augmented Reality etc. Maybe people would understand the consequences of GLOBAL WARMING and reduce DEFORESTATION. Food habit will also be different. Maybe time travelling would be easy and people might be able to see the past and future after 2125. I hope that future will be good and I hope that people conserve water for the next generations after 2125.

- Dhruv P Kambli, Grade 5G

The future is closer than we think, and it's more fascinating than sci-fi. Imagine cities plan themselves, skyscrapers covered in lush vertical gardens, growing food in urban areas, and flying taxis zipping us around, homes that predict your needs, education tailor-made for all powered by AI. Artificial intelligence set to revolutionize daily life.

- Parikshit L, Grade 6C

The year 2125: A Peek Into the Future
In the year 2125, life could be very different. People might live on other planets and use flying cars or robots to them every day. Cities may be very clean, green, tall. We could use special energy that doesn't harm Earth. Some people might live longer because of better medicine. AI, computers and robots may become very smart and work with humans. But still we will need to be kind, fair, and take care of our planet. The future can be amazing if we make good choices today.

— Anoushi Deepak, 3B

In the year twenty are twenty five, a digital dawn,
Where screen ignite, and nature feels withdrawn.

No quiet talks, no laughter in the air, Just glowing pixels, everywhere, oh everywhere.

From mornings light to twilight's softest gleam,
Our lives entwined with a silicon dream.

An iPhones glow, a smartwatch on the wrist, Macbooks hum, a world that can't resist.

No gentle stroll through fields of emerald green, Just fingers dancing on a vibrant screen.

The wild embrace of nature, lost to sight, As green time fades, replaced by digital light.

The lakes, the wells, the rivers flowing free, A precious gift, for all humanity.

But heed the warning, whispers on the breeze, For water's grace, we'll beg upon our knees, More trees to plant, new oxygen to find, Lest precious breath, we leave so far behind-For lithiums gleam, in engines built to soar, A finite treasure, sought from shore to shore.

A S Hassini, 5G

Grades 7–11: "Operation Sindoor: Through the Eyes of a Border Dweller"

Operation Sindoor, a code so bold
A mission to protect, serve and hold

Through the eyes of a dweller, I see the strive
The struggles and triumph of life

Operation Sindoor, a symbol of might Without soldiers giving up and working through the night

With many who lost their lives,
We all stand grateful for their sacrifice.

For all soldiers who stood tall,
You shine bright through it all.

To all soldiers who fought all the way,
You are the reason to a brighter day.

Tejasvi JS, Grade - 7A

Pavani S
Class - 7D

Beneath the Red Mark "Where joy was lost"

They called it Sindoor, bold and proud,
But here, it bleeds into the ground I bowed.
It's not worn bright by laughing brides,
But smeared in streets where silence hides.
I watch through cracks inside my wall,
I plead for signs the dark won't stay –
For just one light to show the way.
My mirror holds a stranger's face,

- Deepshika R, Grade 10A

Operation Sindoor: Through the Eyes of a Border Dweller:

Living near the Indo-Pak border is a life of fear and waiting. When the Pahalgam attack happened, the pain felt close, like losing our own. Operation Sindoor brought both pride and relief. India finally acted, quickly and carefully, targeting only the terrorists. The name Sindoor, a symbol of love and safety, made us feel seen and protected. Yes, we still worry about what might come next, but this time, we know our country stands with us. For border dwellers like me, Operation Sindoor was not just about defense—it was about justice, safety, and hope for a more peaceful tomorrow.
